ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

A doctoral research is indeed a gruelling task. What one learns besides sharpen ing one's academic expertise is, the time - honoured truth - One may move a blade of grass alone not a boulder. A task such as this one can be achieved only with the blessings, cooperation, support, inspiration and guidance from well wishers, teachers, family and friends. I take this opportunity to thank them all together and individually. To some of them I am highly beholden for the life-time.

Foremost, to my guide Prof. Ratan Parimoo, Professor of Art History and Aesthetics, Faculty of Fine Arts, M.S.University, Baroda, for clarifying my ideas on the present topic and convincing me of its significance. I owe my entire grounding in art historical discipline to his guidance and perception. His writings on architectural development, application of semiotics to Indian art and many other observations have been inspiring and eye opening.

Another person whom I consider as my esteemed guide and philosopher is Shri M.A.Dhaky, Associate Director (Research) American Institute of Indian Studies, Centre for Art and Archaeology, Ramnagar, Varanasi, for his invaluable suggestions, guidance and clarification at the initial stages of the data collection. His constant encouragement, inspiration and kind words through-out the entire duration of the research work, have been reassuring and morale-boosting.

During the past few years Prof. R.N.Misra, Dr. Devangana Desai, Dr. Kapila Vatsyayan, Dr. Anandakrishna, Dr. Kamlesh Datt Tripathi and Dr. K.S.Srinivasan, have also been kind enough to give their views, assessment and suggestions for further work on the thesis at different junctures. I thank them for their timely guidance.

I was fortunate enough to get the junior research fellowship for the summer of 1990 from the American Institute of Indian Studies, Ramnagar for the documentation of my research project. I am indebted to their photo archieves for providing me with each and every photograph of many of the sites required on time. For this I thank Shri R. Sharma, archivist and all the staff members of the archieves. I also thank Shri Yadev, Chief Librarian and all the other library and the administrative staff of the institute. I would particularly like to note the friendly and warm cooperation received at the Institute on all my three visits made between 1988 and 1990.

During my data collection tours, I have made use of the following libraries from which I received good cooperation. I note them here : Oriental Institute Library, Museum and Picture Gallery library at Baroda, National Centre for Performing Arts, Bombay, Bharat Kala Bhavan Museum Library, Varanasi, National Museum Library, Lalit Kala Library, Indira Gandhi National Centre for the Arts Library, Nehru Memorial Library, Teen Murti House, all at New Delhi.

During my stay at Varanasi a home outside the home was provided by Shri O.P.Tandon and Smt. Usha Tandon. I discovered fosteparents in Smt. Gitanjaliben and Shri Dhaky at the same time. I thank both these families for their affection and care.

At Baroda my colleagues and students have also worked alongwith me to see me through with this doctoral research with a smiling face.

I thank Dr. Smt. Vaijayanthi Navangule, Lecturer, Sanskrit, Department of Art History and Aesthetics for translating the Sanskrit data and clarifying and formulating the devangana names. I thank her and Dr. Shivaji Panikker Reader and I/C Head, Department of Art History for sharing ideas, discussions and frustrations. I also thank Shri Shailendra Kushwaha the archivist and Kum. Nilanjana Bhattacharya, I/C Documentation Officer, for locating the documentation material from the Archives of the Department of Art History and Aesthetics. I have also been able to draw upon the material from the documentation undertaken by the department under the SPECIAL ASSISTANCE PROGRAMME of the University Grants Commission. The most efficient and neat work has been done by photographer Shri Himanshu Pahad, H.S.Kadam and Ravi Kadam. Their cooperation has always been supportive. My other strength is the support of my student friends, who have neatly prepared the photo albums. They are Rita Sodha, Pallavi Sharma, Rajesh Singh, Sonali Soni, Renuka Kadapatti, Naresh, Vaibhav Vishal, Mrinal Kulkarni, Monal Iyer and Shaili Sharma.

My family specially needs to be mentioned, since their involvement in this work was the major factor that led the thesis to its completion. My parents-in-law, Smt. Sarojinidevi and Shri R. Jagannathan kindly condescended and supported till the end, strongly urging me to complete the work. My artist mother Smt. Naina Dalal and father Prof. Ratan Parimoo have done for me what few parents would be doing to support academic persuits of their children. I am beholden to my mother and mother-in-low for, they have sacrificed their valuable time from their own academic and artistic persuits, enabling me to complete this work. I thank my sister Smt. Gayatri Patel for neatly typing some portions of the manuscript.

Finally, I find it difficult to thank my husband, Shri Krishnan Jagannathan, who has stood by me against all odds, inspiring and encouraging, at the same time reassuring with mental and emotional support.

In the end, I thank Shri Yashpal Tuli (architect) and Shri Narendra Mistry and Shri Dinesh Rohit for neatly and efficiently preparing the typed manuscript and keeping to the schedule and cooperating till the end.

I was very fortunate to have received a small Study and Research Grant from the Nehru Trust for Indian Collections at Victoria and Albert Museum, which has enabled me to cover the cost of the presentation of the thesis.

Baroda.
