

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

Research is a cooperative activity. Though one person undertakes it, he or she is dependent on so many others for ideas, criticism, references, etc. The investigator acknowledges with gratitude the cooperation extended by all those he cannot mention by name for want of space. However, the following personalities have helped the investigator more particularly and in many constructive ways.

Throughout this work the influence of guide and teacher, Prof. D. B. Desai, will be obvious. His erudition, his mastery over the subject and his ungrudging help inspired at every stage and goaded to overcome the difficulties which threatened this work. No words can be found adequate to express a debt owed to him.

The investigator regards this opportunity to thank Prof. A. S. Patel, Dean, Faculty of Education & Psychology, who too gave his valuable time and helped unhesitatingly in different ways at difficult times.

The investigator is also deeply grateful to Dr. D. R. Darji who not only helped him in framing the items of the tool constructed and standardized, but also helped to put forth the best that he could afford within the limited time and resources available. Dr. Darji also helped the investigator in reading critically the draft of his research report and making suggestions for enriching his work.

The investigator wishes to record most sincere appreciation of Prof. S.C.Parikh and Dr.(Mrs.)P.B.Dekhtawala for giving their lot of time and technical expertness during the development of 'Innovative Proneness Scale for Teacher-Educators'. Their unassuming manner and cooperative spirit were undoubtedly a most redeeming feature.

To colleagues in the Department of Education, Faculty of Education & Psychology, the investigator owes profound thanks for their generous help in execution of the study.

The investigator sincerely thanks Librarian, Smt. S. S. Padhye, for her assistance.

The investigator records great appreciation for the kind cooperation extended by the Principals and Teacher-Educators of Secondary Teachers' Training Colleges of Gujarat State.

Finally, the investigator desires to place a note of special appreciation of his wife, Sukanya Panchal for her constant encouragement and sharing inconvenience caused during this research work.

Most grateful thanks should also go to Mr. P. B. Parikh for his personal interest and care in typing.
