

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Like any other research Educational Research is a serious and complex phenomenon. The topic of present research especially the selected correlates and the variables made the study novel and interesting but at the same time serious and difficult as well. Such a study cannot be completed without the valuable assistance and cooperation of the official guide, research colleagues, faculty staff, friends and family members. The longer time taken in completion of this work added difficulties. Non-availability of any external financial assistance also brought new challenges. In short, this study would not have been completed without the out of way help from the dignitaries mentioned above. Apart from this anonymous acknowledgement made to reduce the long list otherwise, the investigator finds extraordinarily indebted to some individuals for whom specific acknowledgement would be the least expression of gratitude.

The investigator records her deep sense of gratitude to the first guide Dr. D.R.DARJI, whose guidance was valuable from the stage of planning till completion of survey of this research. His premature death in a road accident came as a shock for the investigator and frustrated the progress of this research. The continuity of guidance was lost and the remaining part of work had to be re-shaped. As a result, lot of efforts already put in the analysis and presentation of data became wasteful. This lengthened the time schedule of the work. The political situation in the country particularly the repeated communal violence and strikes in the cities of Gujrat state also created enough difficulties in collection of data. The unfortunate demise of Dr. D.R.DARJI at that juncture was a bolt from the blue. It is an unbearable loss to the investigator.

The investigator is also deeply indebted to Dr. (Mrs.) PRAMILA B. DEKHTAWALA who undertook the job of guidance from the crucial stage left by Dr. D.R.DARJI. The replanning, recasting and rescheduling the left over work, in fact, was the start of a fresh research work. Without any link with the past progress her labour in rejuveniating this research was by no means a small challenge. Only her guidance and reassurance to the investigator made this work to reach the stage of completion.

The contribution of Professor M.^S.Yadav, Head of the C.A.S.E., Baroda, requires a special acknowledgement. His efforts in arranging the last extension of time enabled finalisation of this research. His method of motivation by persuasive coaxing deserves special mention.

The investigator also places on record the deep appreciation for Dr. P.K.DONGRE the Dean of the Faculty of Education and Psychology of the M.S. University, Baroda for his unreserved support during the crucial stages of this study. His smiling cooperation and encouraging suggestions and recommendations contributed significantly in completion of this research.

The investigator also places on record her deep appreciation and thanks to Dr. D.B.DESAI who was the Dean of the faculty as well as the Head of the Department of Education and Psychology of the M.S.University of Baroda during the crucial period of this research. Without his timely recommendation the extension of time would not have been possible.

The investigator is heavily indebted to Smt.SAROJ PADHYE, the versatile Librarian, C.A.S.E., Baroda whose timely and out of way cooperation contributed significantly to the completion of this research.

The investigator cannot forget the self-sacrifices and cooperative support rendered by Smt. Premlata Pandya, Principal of Vidhut Board School, Dr. M. Choksi, the Ex - Principal of the Experimental School of the M.S. University, Baroda, Dr. A.S.Patel, the retired Dean of the Faculty of Education and Psychology, Dr. D.C.Joshi, Professor of the Faculty of Education, M.S.University of Baroda, and many Principals, teachers and friends who helped in distribution, completion and collection of the questionnaire of the research from near and distant schools selected for the study. Special mention is also required for the repeated advice of Shri B.D.Mistry for cutting the administrative red tape.

The section of acknowledgement would remain incomplete without recording of deep appreciation for the husband and children of the investigator who sacrificed their comfort and cooperated keenly in the completion of this long drawn research work. The financial forbearance and arrangements for collection and repeated analysis of data by her husband who is an officer of the Indian Air Force requires special mention. Without his active support, sustained sacrifices and constant encouragement, this study would have collapsed at several stages. During the period of this research he moved on permanent transfers to four stations. He looked after the household and the two school going children in addition to his hazardous duties during the absence of the investigator for research work. Completion of this research and the consequential awards of degree of the Doctor of Philosophy is in fact basically founded on the sacrifices of the member of the family of the investigator for the acknowledgement of which words will always be short of expression.
