

He wishes to take this opportunity to express his deep sense of gratitude to the authorities of the U.G.C. for providing him the opportunity to pursue his study for Ph.D. degree at this Centre on such a new topic which was almost untouched. He is very grateful to Professor D.B. Desai, the Dean, Faculty of Education & Psychology and Head of the the Department of Education for his valuable advice and suggestions.

In designing and executing this research, the investigator was fortunate enough to receive the close and constant guidance from his guide Dr.D.C.Joshi. He is very much indebted to Dr.D.C.Joshi for his invaluable guidance without which this work would not have been completed. The minute attention that Dr. Joshi has paid to the small details of the work, went a long way in motivating the investigator's aim for the best within his reach. For this, the investigator like to thank Dr. Joshi heartly and sincerely.

He is also thankful to Shri O.D. Tripathi and Mrs.S.D.Patankar, who inspite of their busy programme spared their most valuable time to help him in all respects.

The investigator extends a special feeling of thankfulness to the administrators, the teachers and the students who very willingly cooperated in the matter of providing the data; thanks are also due to other friends who have helped directly or indirectly towards the completion of this work.

His children and wife are no less partners in the completion of this task. They shared the responsibilities for themselves and allowed him to pursue freely the task of higher education programmes with an undeterred mind for a fruitful success. He acknowledges his sincere love and admiration for them.

The investigator received excellent support for typing the manuscript from Mr. Chunara. He is thankful to him.
