

FOREWORD

Education to-day is in a crisis, brought out mainly by the dazzling pace of change, occurring in and outside education. Colleges of Education have a legitimate responsibility of helping schools to manage the near sweeping change that occurs all around. Effective communication between colleges of education and schools is the prime requisite for such a help that the college of education can extend to schools. It is this conviction that has inspired the investigator to launch upon this investigation of communication pattern of colleges of Education.

The investigator records with gratitude her thanks to CASE for enrolling her as a research scholar in The M.S. university of Baroda.

The investigator places on record her deep sincere grateful thanks for the excellent guidance, the humane approach, the continual encouragement and superb student guide relationship that Dr.D.B.Desai, Professor of Education, and Head, Centre of Advanced Study in Education, Faculty of Education and Psychology in his own characteristic way extended to the investigator and helped her in all ways to get the study completed.

Thanks to all her personal friends and relatives who have stood by her, thick and thin, to make this study a success.

Mary Josephine

---