I owe my gratitude to almighty GOD and to all those people who have made this thesis possible and because of whom my experience has been one that I will cherish forever.

It cannot be argued with that the most influential person in my graduation and post-graduation career has been my guru, Dr. Kishore S. Rajput. His passion, guidance, and discipline have been indispensable to my growth as a researcher and as a person over these past five and a half years. I wouldn't be where I am today without him. His encouragement and persistence in my academic years has taught me that I am who I am, and made me capable, to work hard with lots of dedication. I am especially grateful to him for his support, timely attention, giving intellectual freedom to work and his devotion to his students' education and success. He has always inspired me to achieve the greatness he have. I owe him my eternal thankfulness and feel immensely privileged to have been allowed to get to learn from him.

I am indebted to Professor and Head Dr. Sandhya Garge, Professor and former Head Dr. Arun Arya, and Professor Dr. Vinay Raole, Department of Botany, The M. S. University of Baroda, for providing me her valuable suggestions and the necessary facilities to carry out the research.

I am sincerely thankful to Dr K. S. Rao, Professor and former Head, B. R. Doshi School of Biosciences, Sardar Patel University, for providing me with the necessary facilities to carry out the project work to accomplish my Ph.D. course work,

I sincerely acknowledge the Forest Research Institute, Gandhinagar, Gujarat, for providing financial assistance in the form of Research Fellowship.

The grand gratitude definitely goes to my mentor Dr. Rina Koyani who introduced me to the enthralling world of fungi and biodegradation. Her immense assistance, unconditional support and affection throughout the work were inconceivable and provided a pleasant working environment. I owe great depths of thanks to her for all the methods she taught me and for all the knowledge she shared with me. I greatly benefited from her keen scientific insight, his skill for solving seemingly intractable practical difficulties, and her ability to put complex ideas into simple terms. Her significant contribution, involvement, care and persistent backup during this journey would always be valued and cherished. The time spent with her would always remain unforgettable for me the entire life. This thesis would not have seen the light of the day without her.

I am greatly indebted to Dr. Gaurav Sanghvi and Dr. Vidya Patil their significant contributions and admiration to my joyful journey with whom I have enriched the most memorable moments. I also owe deep thanks to Ms. Hiral Patel for her sisterly attitude and considerate contribution to my work, Her valuable support, unconditional help and fondness would always be honoured and respected. I will be always deeply thankful to Mr. Ajit Vasava and Mr. Bharat not only for their support and help during my work but also for their unconditional assistance during my fieldtrips. I appreciatively acknowledge and thank Dr. Pramod Sivan for his kind, enthusiastic and excellent cooperation in my Histology work, His support and valuable suggestions would always be admired. I am also greatly thankful to Mr. Amit, Mr. Ronak and Mr. Ravi for their help and support in my work,

I owe my deep gratitude to Dr. Rakesh Sharma, Lecturer, and his research student Mr. Yogesh Chamkure, Department of Applied Chemistry, Technology Faculty, The M. S. University, Baroda, for their immediate assistance and help in FTIR interpretation.
