
CONTENTS

Declaration	v
Abstract	vii
Extended Abstract	viii
Acknowledgements	xii
Style Guide	xvi

PART 1: Introduction

1) Setting the Scene	9
– Theme and Scheme	9
o A Summary of Clooney's Chapter	10
– Scope and Rationale	14
– Methodology	17
o Terminology	23
– Sources	29
– Structure	36
– Summary	40

PART 2: Sources and Tools of Svāminārāyaṇa Hindu Theology

2) Introduction	44
– The Imperceptibility and Ineffability of God	46
3) Revelation – The Exclusive Source of Svāminārāyaṇa Hindu Theology	54
– Revelation as Self-Manifestation	55
o Revelation as Unveiling of the Soul	64
– Revelation in and by the Guru	70

– Revelation through Scripture	80
○ Primacy of Scripture	87
○ Centrality of Guru in Receiving Scripture	91
4) Tools of Svāminārāyaṇa Hindu Theology	96
– Reason	97
– Praxis	101
– Tradition	107

PART 3: Themes of Svāminārāyaṇa Hindu Theology

5) Introduction	112
– Five Eternal Entities of Svāminārāyaṇa Vedānta	114
6) Parabrahman	129
– Absolute Essentiality of Knowing God	130
– SARVOPARI: God as Supreme	137
○ Superiority of Parabrahman Over All Others	138
▪ One Without Second	138
▪ Sovereign Lord, Owner and Controller	141
▪ Soul of All Beings and Things	150
▪ Source of All Avatāras	160
▪ Transcending Akṣara	165
○ Limitless Nature of Parabrahman's Own Being	170
▪ Time: Nitya	174
▪ Space: Sarvavyāpaka	175
▪ Knowledge: Sarvajña	179
▪ Power: Sarvaśaktimān	183
▪ Splendour: Sarvasundara	187

▪ Bliss: Sarvasukhamaya	188
▪ Virtues: Sakalaśubhaguṇasampanna	195
– KARTĀ: God as Omniagent	200
○ Emphasis on Knowing Parabrahman as the All-Doer	200
○ Parabrahman as the All-Doer & All-Cause	205
▪ Parabrahman as Creator, Sustainer and Dissolver & Both Efficient Cause and Material Cause	206
• Some Challenges to Parabrahman's Omniagency and Perfect Nature	208
▪ Parabrahman as Support, Controller, Indweller, Inspirer, Permitter, etc.	218
– SĀKĀRA: God as Having Form	222
○ Emphasis on Knowing Parabrahman as Having a Form	223
○ Reasoning for Why Parabrahman has a Form	226
▪ Śāstric Consistency	226
▪ Divine Light from a Divine Source	231
▪ Immanent Yet Distinct	233
○ Parabrahman as Eternally Having a Form	235
▪ Parabrahman's Human-Shaped Form	236
• Dispelling Some Doubts about Parabrahman's Human-Shaped Form	242
– PRAGAṬA: God as Manifest	248
○ Centrality of Pragaṭa/Pratyakṣa Parabrahman in Svāminārāyaṇa Hindu Theology	251
○ Parabrahman as Manifest	259
▪ Divine Embodiment of the Transcendental Form	261
▪ Absolute Divinity of the Embodied Form	267
▪ Divine Embodiment by Free, Loving, Gracious Will	280
▪ Purpose of Divine Embodiment	285
▪ Svāminārāyaṇa as Parabrahman	290
▪ Continued Presence through Akṣarabrahman	300

7) Akṣarabrahman	302
– Akṣarabrahman as Ontologically Distinct from Parabrahman	304
○ Muṇḍaka Upaniṣad 2.1.2: akṣarāt parataḥ paraḥ	310
○ Bhagavad-Gītā 8.21: tad dhāma paramaṃ mama	338
○ Bhagavad-Gītā 15.16-18: Kṣara, Akṣara & Uttama Puruṣa	349
– Essentiality and Centrality of Akṣarabrahman in Svāminārāyaṇa Hindu Theology	362
– Nature of Akṣarabrahman	373
○ One Without Second	374
○ Transcending All (Except Parabrahman)	376
○ Immutable	379
○ Satyam, Jñānam, Anantam	380
○ Role in Creation, Sustenance and Dissolution	382
○ Anvaya and Vyatireka	390
○ Nirguṇa and Saguṇa	391
○ Nirākāra and Sākāra	392
○ In Relation to Parabrahman	393
– Four Forms of Akṣarabrahman	395
○ As Cidākāśa	396
○ As Akṣaradhāma	400
○ As Sevaka in Akṣaradhāma	408
○ As Brahmasvarūpa Guru	410
8) Jīva	433
– Nature of Jīva	434
○ Distinct from the Body, Senses & Inner Faculties	435
▪ The Three Bodies of the Jīva	441
▪ The Three States of the Jīva	446
○ Sat-Cit-Ānanda and Pure	447
○ Knower	450
○ Atomicity	452

○ Agent and Enjoyer	456
○ Imperishability, Eternality, Individuality and Immutability	459
○ Multiplicity	465
– Relationship with Parabrahman	467
○ Understanding the Self to Understand and Relate to God	468
○ Dependent and Free	473
9) Īśvara	482
– Nature	483
– Roles and Functions	488
– Distinction from and Relation to Parabrahman	493
10) Māyā	501
– Nature of Māyā	501
○ Triune	502
○ Characterised by Insentience and Sentiency	504
○ Eternal (Yet Mutable)	504
○ Indistinct	505
○ Material Substratum of All Beings and Things	506
○ Power (or Means) of God	507
○ Ignorance	508
○ Useful	509
– Māyā as Jagat	513
○ Parabrahman as Creator and Cause	517
○ Purpose of Creation and Irreproachability of the Creator	521
○ Creative Process	529
○ Dissolution	537
▪ Nitya Pralaya	540
▪ Nimitta Pralaya	540
▪ Prākṛta Pralaya	541

▪ Ātyantika Pralaya	542
• Jñāna Pralaya	542
• Actual Dissolution	543
11) Mukti	546
– Nature and Cause of Bondage	547
– Nature of Liberation	551
○ Videha Mukti: Post-Mortem Liberation	555
○ Jīvan-Mukti: Pre-Mortem Liberation	562
○ Ontological Distinction of Muktas from Parabrahman and Akṣarabrahman	567
○ Svāmi-Sevaka Relationship of Muktas with Parabrahman	575
– Way to Liberation	582
○ Grace and Effort	583
○ Knowledge of Parabrahman and Akṣarabrahman	591
○ Knowing and Serving Parabrahman Manifest through the Brahmasvarūpa Guru	595
▪ Associating with the Brahmasvarūpa Guru	603
▪ ‘Oneness’ with the Brahmasvarūpa Guru	609

PART 4: Conclusion & Way Forward

12) Conclusion: Hindu Theology as Theology	621
– Completing the Test: Returning to Clooney’s ‘Clues’ of Hindu Theology	622
– Broadening the Test: Using Anselm’s ‘Faith Seeking Understanding’	633
– A New Test: Suggesting and Demonstrating a Hindu Formulation of (Hindu) Theology	642

○ From 'Hearing' to 'Seeing': Śravaṇa, Manana, Nididhyāsana, Darśana	642
○ Bhagavad-Gītā 4.34 and the Example of Arjuna	646
13) Way Forward	658
– Why is this Study Significant and to Whom	658
– Opportunities for New Scholarship	665
○ On the Svāminārāyaṇa Tradition	666
▪ Challenges to Svāminārāyaṇa Hindu Theology	669
○ In Hindu Theology and Other Disciplines	672
○ In Comparative Theology	679
 Bibliography	 690

