

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

First and foremost I would like to express my deepest gratitude to my research supervisor, Professor (Dr.) Sushmita Sen, Head, Department of Archaeology & Ancient History, The Maharaja Sayajirao University of Baroda for her unwavering support, invaluable guidance, and endless patience throughout this journey. Her encouragement and insightful feedback have not only shaped this thesis but have also fostered my personal and professional growth.

My journey with the Department of Archaeology and Ancient History began during my Master's program, and it has been truly remarkable. Not only have I received exceptional academic exposure, but I've also formed invaluable friendships with amazing individuals whom I cherish deeply. I'm immensely grateful to the staff, especially Lalabhai for their assistance in accessing materials of Devnimori and Shamalaji sites. Additionally, I want to express my heartfelt appreciation to Prathistha Mukherjee, Pallabhi Bagchi and Akash Pandey for their unwavering support and patience in guiding me through administrative processes whenever I needed help. Their dedication and willingness to assist have made a significant difference in my academic journey.

I am also profoundly grateful to (Dr.) Amol Kulkarni, Asst. Keeper of the Museum, Dr. Babasaheb Ambedkar Marathwada University, Aurangabad, Maharashtra for his constant assistance, encouragement, and valuable discussions which have enriched this work. My knowledge of ceramics stem from his consistent training and fruitful discussions. His continual pushing of my boundaries and unceasing faith in me have empowered me to accomplish this herculean task. His diverse perspectives and expertise have significantly contributed to the depth and quality of this research.

My sincere gratitude to Dr. Abhijit Ambekar, Superintending Archaeologist, ASI Excavation Branch-V Baroda, who has been my support and anchor in both my professional and personal life. He stands out among government officials for his wholehearted willingness to grant access to data. As one of the main pillars he has provided me with opportunities for field work, excavation and report writing in Vadnagar. His steadfast support and encouragement were instrumental in helping me complete my thesis.

I would like to express my thanks to Dr. Pankaj Sharma, Director, Directorate of Archaeology & Museums, Gandhinagar, for always being supportive and for providing me with all the administrative approvals during final submission.

Special thanks to all my pottery team members namely, Thakor Parkhanji Bhikhaji, Thakor Ranjitji vanaji, Thakor Alkhaji Gopalji, Thakor Prahladi Megaji, Jadav Kansubha Dhansing, Thakor Shaileshji Vishnuji, Thakor Aartiben Dolsangji and Thakor Manishaben Bharatji. Likewise, I also thank Mukesh Thakur for his pottery drawings and Mahendra thakur in AutoCad drawings. Without their invaluable assistance, years of experience and support this quantum of pottery work wouldn't have been completed. Their contributions have been instrumental in overcoming various challenges encountered during this research.

As much as collecting and organising data is, presenting the data is equally significant.. In this regard, I thank Mr. Pritam Maitey, whose expertise in the Excel sheet has greatly helped me in the challenge of formulating huge statistical data in the most easy manner. Additionally, I thank Ms. Aakriti and Mr. Prasenjit Shukla who have been instrumental in presenting the figures and maps and all the data in the most aesthetically pleasing manner.

I would like to give my sincere thanks to Vechaar Utensils Museum, Vishalla, Ahmedabad where Mrs. Foram Thakore, Design Consultant, Mr. Rajesh Parmar, Curator and Shri. Bal Bahadur Ji for patiently showing their rich collection and answering my queries regarding the probable functions of the vessels. Their inputs have significantly enhanced the depth of my thesis.

I would like to express gratitude for the financial support provided by the Jawaharlal Nehru Fellowship funding Organization. Their generosity and belief in the importance of academic research have made this endeavour possible.

My sincere appreciation goes to my family, especially my father Mr. Saji P. Varkey, for their love, prayers, support, and understanding throughout this challenging yet rewarding journey. Their constant encouragement, sacrifices, and belief in my abilities have been my anchor, providing me with the strength and motivation to persevere.

I thank Mr. Ganesh Jawarikar, Senior Photographer, ASI Excavation Branch-V Baroda who has immense experience in the field of object photography of the artefacts of excavation. His contribution and constant support has greatly helped me in justifying my thesis work.

Furthermore, I am deeply thankful to my colleagues and friends for their fellowship, encouragement, and unwavering support throughout this journey. Their friendship and solidarity have made the challenges more manageable and the successes more meaningful.

Finally, I am grateful to all those who have contributed in any way to this thesis, whether through their encouragement, feedback, or friendship. Each interaction and support received along the way has played a significant role in shaping this work and my personal and professional development.
