

(v)

LIST OF TABLES

No.	Table	Page
3.1	Reliability and Validity of the Tool	58
3.2	Types of Schools	60
3.3	Sex-wise Number of Teachers	60
3.4	Distribution of the Sample According to Age	61
3.5	Distribution of the Sample According to Recency of Training in Years	62
3.6	Distribution of the Sample According to the Teaching Experience in Years	62
3.7	Distribution of the Sample According to the Teaching Experience in the Subject	63
3.8	Basic Qualifications of Teachers	64
3.9	Professional Qualifications of Teachers	64
3.10	History as a Subject at Professional Qualification	65
4.1	Master Matrix for 150 Teachers	76
4.2	Percent Matrix for 150 Teachers	77
4.3	Interaction Ratios of 150 Teachers	78
4.4	Sex-wise Mean and SD of Different Variables Describing the Sample	81
4.5	Relation Between the Age of Teachers and their Communication Pattern	83
4.6	Relation Between the Teachers' Sex and their Communication Pattern	84
4.7	Relation Between the Teachers' Qualifications and their Communication Pattern	85
4.8	Relation Between the Teachers' Recency of Training and the Communication Pattern	86
4.9	Relation Between the Teaching Experience of Teachers and their Communication Pattern	87
4.10	Mean Difference of Teachers' Communication Pattern and Different Types of Schools	90

No.	Table	Page
4.11	Mean Difference Between Teachers' Qualification and their Communication Pattern	91
4.12	Mean Difference Between the Professional Qualification of Teachers and their Communication Pattern.	93
4.13	Mean Difference Between Teachers having Subject at Graduation and their Communication Pattern	94
4.14	Mean Difference Between Teaching Methods Offered at Professional Education and the Communication Pattern.	95
4.15	Mean and SD for 150 Teachers' Various Perceptions	97
4.16	Relation Between Teachers' self Perception and Measures of Teachers' Communication Pattern	99
4.17	Relation Between Teachers' Instructional Roles Perceptions and the Measures of Teachers' Communication Pattern	99
4.18	Relation Between the Teachers' Perceptions of Teaching Profession and the Measures of Teachers' Communication Pattern	101
4.19	Relation Between the Teachers' Instructional Goals Perceptions and the Measures of Teachers' Communication Pattern	102
4.20	Relation Between Teachers' Perception of their Students and the Measures of Teachers' Communication Pattern	104
4.21	Multiple Correlation and Regression Equation Between I/D and the Perception Variables	106
4.22	Multiple Correlation and Regression Equation Between Teacher Talk (TT) and Perception Variables	107
4.23	Multiple Correlation and Regression Equation Between Teacher Student Ratio (T/S) and the Perception Variables	108
4.24	Multiple Correlation and Regression Equation Between Student Talk (ST) and Perception Variables	109
4.25	Interaction Ratios in the Three Studies	111