

LIST OF TABLES

Sr. No.		Page No.
1	Distribution of the Sample Zone and City wise	62
2	Distribution of the Sample According to Age - Groups	62
3	Distribution of the Sample According to Marital Status	63
4	Distribution of the Sample According to the Types of Family	63
5	Distribution of the Sample According to the Total Number of Family Member,	64
6	Distribution of the Sample According to the Professional Hierarchy	64
7	Distribution of the Sample According to years of Experience	65
8	Distribution of the Sample According to the Type of Institution in which Working	65
9	An Example Illustrating the Determination of the Rank Orders	67
10	An Example Illustrating Computation of Co-Efficient of Concordance	92
11	The Rank-Orders given by the Women Professionals in Academics, Medicine, Administration, Law and Media	102
12	Cumulative Rank-Orders for the Women Professionals	103
13	Concordance in the Perceptions of Women Professionals	115
14	Opposition from the Family Members	120
15	Sources of Opposition	121
16	Resistance on Part of Employers to Employ Women Professionals	127

Ser. No.		Page No.
17	Reasons of Reluctance on Part of Employer to Employ women	120
18	Commuting Long Distance to Reach Work - Place	127
19	Professional Efficiency being Affected by Commuting	127
20	Frequent travels and transfers involved in Profession	128
21	Effect of travels and transfers	128
22	Reactions of the family Members about travels Transfers	129
23	Getting Equal Opportunities for Challenging and Different Responsibilities	130
24	Reasons for Lack of Opportunities for Challenging and Difficult Responsibilities	136
25	Getting Opportunities for Professional Growth	137
26	Nature of Opportunities for Professional Growth	138
27	Reasons for Lack of Opportunities for Professional Growth	139
28	Cautious Involvement	151
29	Situations Leading to Emotional Involvement	152
30	Effect of Emotional Involvement on Professional Efficiency	153
31	Interactions with the Fellow Professionals ( More often )	160
32	Interactions with the fellow - Professionals ( More freely )	161
33	Interactions with the fellow - Professionals ( Sharing Professional Problems )	161
34	Nature of Interactions with fellow Professionals	162
35	Resentment shown by Male subordinates in taking Instructions	164

Sr. No.		Page No.
36	Situations wherein instructions are Resented by Male subordinates	165
37	Differential Treatment towards Women Professionals	169
38	Types of Differential Treatment towards Women Professionals	170
39	Harassment of Women Professionals	174
40	Types of Harassment	175
41	Factors which Earn Clients' Confidence for Women Professionals	180
42	Circumstances wherein Competence of Women Professionals is Questioned	181
43	Expectation of Higher Level of Performance than Male Colleagues	191
44	Extra Efforts put in to Prove One's Competence	192
45	Physical Appearance Influencing the Assessment of Professional Competence	197
46	Manner in which Physical Appearance Influences Assessment of Professional Competence	198
47	Family Commitments Resulting in Absenteeism	204
48	Consideration Shown by Authorities/Colleagues Regarding Absenteeism	205
49	Professional Responsibilities Leading to Domestic Conflicts/Tension	206
50	Types of Tension and Conflicts Arising in Family Family Life as a Result of Professional Role	207
51	Manner in which Tensions and Conflicts are Resolved	208
52	Encouragement from Family Members for Professional Development	216
53	Nature of Encouragement Received from Family Members for Professional Development	217

Ser. No.		Page No.
54	Satisfaction with Financial Rewards Offered by the Profession	202
55	Expectations Regarding Financial Rewards	203
56	Additional Measures to Supplement Income	204
57	Additional Measures of supplementing income Affecting Professional Efficiency	204
58	Adjustments Required at Personal Level in Order to Enhance Professional Competence	205
59	Adjustments Required at Family Level in Order to Enhance Professional Competence	206
60	Adjustments Required at Societal Level in Order to Enhance Professional Competence	207
61	Adjustments Required at Societal Level in Order to Enhance professional Competence	207