

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Every new accomplishment involves a journey that begins with the seed of an idea and travels its own unique path until its final destination. This thesis is the end of my journey to accomplish my Ph.D. degree. I love the thrill of journey, with its unexpected twists and turns, surprises, excitements and joys. But more than anything else, when I look back on the journey I have taken, I am completely humbled by the number of incredible people who played a vital role in helping me reach my destination. I would like to acknowledge the following people who helped in different ways to make this study successful.

First and foremost, I would like to bow down my head in front of Lord of Lords “SHIV”, continuous source of bliss, love and inspiration, most beneficent and merciful for giving me wisdom and energy to pursue the career in research.

I am extremely obliged to my Research Supervisor, Dr. Sonal I. Thakore, Assistant Professor, Department of Chemistry, Faculty of Science, The Maharaja Sayajirao University of Baroda, Vadodara, for giving me an opportunity to do research in the field of Polyurethane Chemistry under her supervision and strong leadership. I am also extremely grateful to her for her advice in every step of difficulty and her never ending enthusiasm that ultimately created a source of motivational energy within my heart. Her continuous flow of suggestions, excellent time management and constant encouragement throughout the course of this investigation helped me achieve my goals within a timeline. She managed to teach me how to work independently and gave me freedom to develop my own ideas. She also put emphasis and developed me for looking at the optimistic side of things and to think out of box. My words and thoughts fall short whenever I try to describe those always astonishing ideas and discussion she offered during the tenure of Ph.D. I feel privileged to have her as a supervisor who has inspired me to do research in the interdisciplinary area. The outcome of this thesis is a small tribute to my supervisor.
