First and foremost, I would like to express my deep feelings of gratitude to my research supervisor Prof. (Dr.) Anjali Patel for introducing me to this exciting field of catalysis and for her dedicated help, advice and inspiration for which I shall always remain indebted. I have been amazingly fortunate to have an advisor who gave me the freedom to explore on my own and at the same time the guidance to recover when my steps faltered. Her observations and comments helped me to establish the overall direction of the research and to move forward with investigation in depth. Her patience and support helped me overcome many crisis situations and finish this thesis. I thank her for providing me with the opportunity to work with a talented team of researchers. Her enthusiasm, integral view on research and her mission for providing high-quality work, has made a deep impression on me. During our course of interaction during the last four and half years, I have learnt extensively from her, including how to raise new possibilities, how to approach a problem by systematic thinking and decision making. I am also thankful to her for encouraging the use of correct grammar and consistent notation in my writings and for carefully reading and commenting on countless revisions of this thesis. I owe her lots of thanks for having me shown this way of research, cooperation, for facilitating all the requirements, and most important of all the freedom to work. I am really glad to be associated with her and her constant guidance and support will always help me going ahead.

I would like to thank University Grants Commission, UGC (Project no. 39-837/2010(SR)), New Delhi for providing financial support. I am also thankful to Council of Scientific & Industrial Research, CSIR, New Delhi for the Senior Research Fellowship (SRF-CSIR Ref. No. 09/114/197/2014-EMR-I, ACK No. 122195/2K13/1).

My sincere thanks to Prof. N. D. Kulkarni, Head, Department of Chemistry, The M. S. University of Baroda and Prof. B. V. Kamath, Former Head, Department of Chemistry, The M. S. University of Baroda, Vadodara for providing infrastructure facility.

I am grateful to the following persons for helping me during the different stages of my research work.

FT-IR committee	Department of Chemistry, The M. S. University of Baroda
TG-DTA committee	Department of Chemistry, The M. S. University of Baroda
GC-MS committee	Department of Chemistry, The M. S. University of Baroda
BET committee	Department of Chemistry, The M. S. University of Baroda
¹ H NMR committee	Department of Chemistry, The M. S. University of Baroda
SEM and EDX analysis	Dr. Vandana Rao, Metallurgy Department, The M. S. University of Baroda
CSMCRI, Bhavnagar	XRD, BET Surface Area Measurement
IISc, Bangalore	²⁹ Si MAS NMR
SAIF, IIT Mumbai	TEM
SAIF, IIT Madras	FT-Raman

First of all I am thankful to god, Ganesha for having made everything possible by giving me strength and courage for doing this work.

The work presented in this thesis would not have been possible without my close association with many people. I take this opportunity to extend my sincere appreciation and obligation to all those who made this Ph.D thesis possible.

It's my pleasure to acknowledge my seniors, Dr. Pragati Shringarpure- Joshi, Dr. Ketan Patel and Dr. Varsha Brahmkhatri for their co-operation, suggestions at the early stage of my research. I specially express thanks to my senior and colleagues, Dr. Soyeb Pathan and Ms. Sukriti Singh, for their valuable support, and encouragements during my entire tenure of research. Their friendship and assistance meant more to me than I could ever express. My Sincere thanks to my colleagues, Ms. Priyanka Solanki, Mr. Rajesh Sadashivan and Ms. Pravya Prakashan for providing joyful environment.

I am thankful to all non-teaching staff especially Mr. Sunil, Mr. Vasant, Mr. Dinesh, and Mr. Raval of the Chemistry Department for their helping hand throughout my research work.

I feel fortunate enough to have numerous friendly people around me. I offer my special thanks to my dearest friends and well-wishers; Amit, Harshal, Anish, Yogeshwar, Prachi, Shweta, Chirag and Harsha for being sources of laughter, joy, and support. Furthermore, I owe my heartfelt appreciation to Naveen, Radheshyam, Kamal, Sumit, Apurba, Pravin and Sandesh from Bhavnagar for the warmth and support I received from them.

I am thankful to friends and colleagues of the department Hemant, Shilpi, Mehul, Shyamsundar, Sanjay Parihar, Rahul Bhatt, Shardul, Jigar, and Sanjay Yadav for their friendly behaviour and support.

Above all, I would like to thank all my teachers, the guiding lamps, who have taught me since my infancy and played a crucial role in framing my approach towards science and life in general.

Words in all of the dictionaries would never suffice to thank my Mummy, Papa, Brother and Bhabhi for their unconditional love, blessings, sacrifices and endless support throughout my life. I am very grateful for your love, concern, care, trust and strength all these years. My wife, Ashwinee, whose love and encouragement allowed me to finish this journey. She already has my heart so I will just give her a heartfelt "thanks." I also want to thank to my parents in-laws for their love, care, trust and incessant motivation.
